Brands of Fiber Stripping Pliers for Melt Fiber

Overview

Fiber Strippers, Decoaters and other Stripping ToolsUnder the Cablematic, Miller, ODM and Utility Tool brands, we sell a wide range Optical Fiber Strippers.

Key Takeaways

Popular brands for fiber stripping pliers suitable for melt fiber include Cablematic, Miller, ODM, Utility Tool, Jonard Tools, and AFL.

Mechanical Fiber Strippers

Mechanical fiber strippers are widely used for removing coatings from optical fibers without damaging the glass.

LASER COMPONENT

S offers strippers under the Cablematic, Miller, ODM, and Utility Tool brands, covering most common fiber types and buffer sizes. These tools are designed for precision stripping of standard telecommunication fibers (typically 125 µm glass with 250 µm coating) and can handle tight buffers (e.g., 900 µm) and larger jackets.

AF

L also provides high-precision mechanical strippers, including multi-hole tools for simultaneous stripping of different fiber diameters.

Thermal Fiber Strippers

For melt fibers or fibers with heat-sensitive coatings, thermal or battery-powered strippers are preferred. These tools use controlled heating to soften the coating before removal, reducing the risk of nicking the fiber. Examples include the M9 thermal stripper, which supports bare fiber, bundles, and ribbon fibers with adjustable temperature settings.

AF

L also offers battery-powered thermal strippers with integral heating elements for fast and safe coating removal.

Jonard Tools

Jonard Tools manufactures a range of fiber strippers suitable for various fiber diameters and cable types. Notable models include the JIC-1022 for 2–3 mm fiber jackets and the CST-4000 Round Cable Strip & Ring Tool, which allows longitudinal, spiral, and circular cuts for precise jacket removal. These tools are spring-loaded to reduce hand fatigue and are widely used by fiber technicians.

Key Considerations

Fiber type and coating: Ensure the stripper is compatible with the fiber's coating material (acrylate, silicone, polyimide) and diameter. Buffer size: Tools may have multiple holes for 250 µm, 900 µm, or larger buffer diameters. Operation type: Mechanical strippers are simple and precise, while thermal strippers are ideal for melt fibers or heat-sensitive coatings.

Replacement blades: Many brands offer replaceable blades for long-term use and consistent performance. By selecting from these reputable brands—Cablematic, Miller, ODM, Utility Tool, Jonard Tools, and AFL—you can ensure precise, safe, and efficient stripping of melt fibers for splicing or connectorization.
