Cable tray media flow direction indicator

Overview

This extremely sensitive flow measurement tool provides flow direction information by responding to slight differences in pressure at two points on a cable system. The maximum deflection range of the gauge pointer is 0-2 inches water (0. Flow indicators are simple devices used for visual flow monitoring in a pipe or process system. Because it can detect such small pressure. LoopView is a two-wire 4-20 mA loop indicator, low power loop-powered indicator. CITO MiniFlow and RotoFlow series flow indicators use a molded turbine to provide a visual indication of flow rate and.
