Ranking of Plastic Optical Cable Production Line Manufacturers

Overview

An authoritative 2026 guide to the top 15 fiber optic manufacturers — from Corning and Prysmian to Fujikura and LS Cable — with headquarters, tech focus, and flagship products.

Key Takeaways

Top manufacturers of optical cables, including plastic optical fiber, are led by Corning, Prysmian Group, Sumitomo Electric, Fujikura, and YOFC, recognized for global reach, innovation, and high-quality production.

Leading Manufacturers

Corning Incorporated – A U. S.-based pioneer in optical fiber technology, Corning holds a significant global market share (~10–40% depending on segment) and is renowned for low-loss, bend-insensitive fibers suitable for both glass and plastic optical applications. Their innovations support telecom networks, hyperscale data centers, and high-speed connectivity projects worldwide.

Prysmian Group – Headquartered in Italy, Prysmian is a global leader in fiber optic and energy solutions, producing high-performance cables including plastic optical fibers. They operate over 100 manufacturing plants and are known for submarine, fire-resistant, and bend-optimized fibers for 5G and long-haul networks. Sumitomo Electric Industries – A Japanese company specializing in fiber optic cables and advanced materials, Sumitomo is recognized for ultra-low-loss fibers and innovative manufacturing technologies like vapor-phase axial deposition (VAD).

Their products serve long-haul, industrial, and smart infrastructure applications. Fujikura Ltd. – Also based in Japan, Fujikura produces fiber optic cables and telecommunications equipment, with expertise in both glass and plastic optical fibers. They are active in global markets including Asia, North America, and Europe, and focus on high-quality, reliable optical solutions.

YOF

C (Yangtze Optical Fibre and Cable) – China's largest fiber optic manufacturer, YOFC produces optical fiber preforms, fibers, and cables, including plastic optical fiber solutions. They are expanding internationally and are key players in 5G and broadband infrastructure projects. Furukawa Electric Co., Ltd. – A Japanese company with a strong presence in Asia, Furukawa offers plastic optical fibers with superior bending and attenuation characteristics, widely used in industrial and smart infrastructure applications.

L

S Cable & System – Based in South Korea, LS Cable manufactures fiber optic and power cables, including plastic optical fibers, and is known for technological innovation and global distribution. Sterlite Technologies – An Indian company focusing on fiber optic cables and digital network solutions, Sterlite is active in emerging markets and smart city projects, producing high-quality optical fibers including plastic variants.

Key Considerations for Choosing Manufacturers

Quality Control & Testing: Look for manufacturers providing detailed test reports, low insertion loss (IL), low optical return loss (ORL), and mechanical stress testing for plastic optical cables. Certifications & Standards: ISO 9001, IEC 60794, RoHS, REACH, and GR-326-CORE compliance ensures reliability and environmental safety. Global Reach & Support: Companies with international manufacturing and distribution networks can provide faster delivery, technical support, and scalability for large projects.

These manufacturers are recognized for their innovation, reliability, and global influence, making them top choices for plastic optical cable procurement and deployment in telecommunications, data centers, and industrial applications.
